Dear Colleagues,

Naresuan University is privileged to draw your kind attention to ASAIHL Conference 2017: 'Better Life Expectancy through Education, Research, and Innovation' to be held at Naresuan University, Phitsanulok, Thailand on December 13-15, 2017.

The Association of Southeast Asian Institutions of Higher Learning (ASAIHL), currently comprising 239 member HEIs worldwide, plays a leading role in coming up with research papers discussing varieties of academic fields presently in current trend of dynamic changing globe. An annually held conference by a designated member institution serves as a platform of knowledge gathered from well-regarded keynote speakers, invited speakers, and those presenters whose proposed research papers are thoroughly vetted by academic committee to be presented during the convention.

This offers a wide range of opportunity for academia to brainstorm and come up with practical solutions varying from main themes to main themes and sub themes to sub themes agreed upon the host university. Paper presenters are cordially invited to exhibit their research outcomes based on these sub themes:

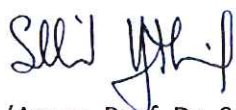

- Education, Research, and Innovation in the Health Sciences Cluster
- Education, Research, and Innovation in the Science and Technology Cluster
- Education, Research, and Innovation in the Social Sciences Cluster
